READING ONE-TO-ONE IS A particular and Christian activity—reading the Bible—in the context of reading with someone. It is something Christian does with another person on a regular basis for a mutually agreed upon length of time with the intention of reading through and discussing a book or a book of the Bible. / part of the usefulness and versatility of the Bible, declaring it to be “profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness”.⁸ Christians are called to live together as Christians, loving those around them and spreading God’s truth to them. Think of Norah and those like her. What does she really need to grow in her newfound faith? Isn’t it exposure to God’s word? Doesn’t the Bible promise us that God will use his word to teach us how to follow Christ? Reading the Bible one-to-one provides an excellent way for Christians to strengthen one another on the road toward sanctification.

3. Training

Reading one-to-one can be used to identify and train people for greater ministry responsibility. In other words, it is the perfect plan for someone like Julius. Most churches are filled with people who love Jesus and are involved in every way that they feel capable. In reality, they are waiting for someone to invest in them for gospel work. Imagine the things people like Julius could accomplish for Christ if someone invested in them for Word ministry. Don’t forget, Jesus focused his ministry on teaching twelve disciples, and of those twelve he focused especially on three: Peter, John and James. The message about Jesus spreads today in the same way it spread back then. This investment in just a few may not

8 2 Timothy 3:16

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also highlights the need for transparency and accountability in all financial activities.

2. The second part of the document focuses on the role of internal controls in ensuring the reliability of financial information. It outlines various control measures that should be implemented to minimize the risk of errors and misstatements. These controls should be designed to provide reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatements.

3. The third part of the document addresses the importance of timely and accurate reporting of financial information. It stresses that the timely availability of reliable financial data is crucial for decision-making by management and other stakeholders. The document also discusses the need for effective communication and collaboration between different departments to ensure the accuracy and completeness of the financial reports.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the role of external audits in providing an independent assessment of the financial statements. It highlights the importance of selecting a qualified and independent audit firm and ensuring that the audit process is conducted in accordance with the applicable auditing standards. The document also emphasizes the need for management to cooperate fully with the auditors and to address any deficiencies identified during the audit.

5. The fifth part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining up-to-date and accurate financial records. It emphasizes that the accuracy and completeness of the financial records are essential for the preparation of reliable financial statements. The document also discusses the need for regular reconciliations and reviews to ensure that the records are accurate and up-to-date.

6. The sixth part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions.
